Taxes Might Hit Incomes, Excise, Sales and Wages

Rich, Poor Alike Will Pay Costs

Specific Details Remain to Be Worked Out And Will Be Given to Congress Soon

Enthusiasm Noted Capitol Reaction Reported Favorable to New Proposals

Washington, April 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today he did not have the faintest idea how $3,500,000,000 in taxes ought to be raised, but he indicated that he still did not like the idea of a sales tax.

Administration officials and congressional leaders of both parties agreed yesterday on a huge program to raise $3,500,000,000 in new revenue next fiscal year to bring government income up to two-thirds of expenditures.

The manner of obtaining the money and the exploration of sources, the President said, is for the determination of the House ways and means committee. Asked what his feeling was on a sales tax, Mr. Roosevelt said it was the same as always. "That means you do not care for it," he was asked.

Not very much, he replied. Mr. Roosevelt said he expected to make a public statement on the tax problem soon but had not decided how or when.

Expected Assessments
Washington, April 18 (AP)—Wide-spread congressional support was accorded today to the administration's enormous program of tax increases by which virtually every citizen soon would be called upon to pay a greater share of the government defense-swollen expenditures.

Specific details of the plan to raise $3,500,000,000 in new revenues remained to be disclosed, but all signs indicated that higher income and excise taxes, new sales levies and possibly a tax on wages would dig into the pocketbooks of both the rich and the poor as never before in America.

Treasury experts worked at top speed to whip details into shape for submission to Congress next week. The plan will be presented to the House ways and means committee by Secretary Morgenthau at a date yet to be fixed exactly. But before that the broad outlines and possibly some of the concrete tax proposals may be given by President Roosevelt in a radio speech or other message to the nation.

The President, it was believed, also will emphasize the necessity for meeting about two-thirds of the vast cost of American rearmament, aid to Britain and other federal expenses on a cash basis.

The two-thirds cash, one-third borrowing formula was first disclosed yesterday by Secretary Morgenthau in announcing the total of new revenues to be raised.

Enthusiasm Reported
Initial reactions at the Capitol were enthusiastically favorable to the proposal, generally conforming with the view expressed by Senator Clark (D-Mo.), a member of the Senate finance committee, that "we've done the appropriate thing."

Palm Beach Getting Ready For Reception of Duke and Duchess

Palm Beach, Fla., April 18 (AP)—Palm Beach society prepared today to greet the Duke and Duchess of Windsor with as much informal entertainment as the famous couple's efforts to avoid ostentation would permit.

The Windsors, making their second visit to the United States together, arrived at Miami this morning aboard the steamer Berkshire from Nassau. From the dock, they went to downtown Miami where British Vice Consul L. A. Oates said the Duchess would visit a physician for a general check-up.

The Duchess appeared in good health as she and the Duke disembarked. They paused on a platform and the Duke waved to a crowd of more than 2,000.

50,000 NAZIS DIE IN BALKAN WAR

Athens Says War Is Developing in Unfavorable Way

London Calls Situation One of Seriousness as Slav Collapse Releases Nazis for Other Service

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Some of the fiercest fighting of the war was proceeding today in several sectors of the serpentine Greco-British battle-line through the mountains of northern Greece as the Hitlerites hurled themselves against the defenses—and things weren't going well for the Allies.

The western half of the line sagged and gave ground in some places under the weight of the terrific onslaught. The situation, Athens said, "is developing unfavorably."

London characterized it as "serious." That's fair warning the Allies expect more grief.

The collapse of organized Yugoslav resistance to the north has released a flood of German troops and equipment—like the breaking of a great dam. The Germans say this will give them additional half a million troops. The torrent is sweeping southward and already is breaking against the comparatively thin line of defense.

The Greeks say that this engagement is likely to be "decisive." Decisive of what? Of the whole war?

Decisive for Balkans
No, not that. Decisive of the battle of the Balkans. It is to determine whether the Allies shall retain a hold on Greece as a base for future operations. That, or whether the Nazis shall roll them back into the sea and thus acquire possession of the entire Balkan peninsula, clear down to Turkey and the Dardanelles.

What happened after that is on the knees of the gods, who are looking down on the holocaust from their ancient abode on Mount Olympus. It's passing strange that the British should have anchored their right wing to this great mountain.

German shock troops were being flung against strategic points with that Napoleonic abandon which counts not the loss of life so long as the objective is gained. Nothing else matters. That is characteristic of the German command, now as ever. Reports say Nazi dead lie deep before the Allied line.

The German soldier dies bravely. But bravery of his unquestioning type hasn't rested along with the attack.

Others, Too, Are Brave
The Greeks and the British have battled fiercely for their positions in the face of superior strength, and where their line sagged they counter-attacked. When morning came the British announced that the line nowhere had been broken through.

A factor which has counted heavily for the Germans has been their air superiority. This has largely offset the deficiency of their land equipment in the mountains.

They have been making their main assaults at two vital points. One is against the Greeks in the center of the line, which your map will show you is near Kalabaka. This is the important railroad for a road winding down into the vast and fertile plains of Thessaly. The other attack is on the extreme right wing of the Allies, where the Australians are holding up against Mount Olympus.

In this Olympus sector all hell broke loose as the Aussies were attacked and counter-attacked. Here the Germans were said to be employing close to 150,000 troops in a desperate effort to turn the British right wing. The Nazis are reported to have lost 25,000 casualties there in two days.

Way over on the western end of the long line, the Axis forces have been driving against the Greeks from Albania.

There we have a picture of the German strategy. They are trying to cut the line in the middle, and then envelop each half—to crush them. Also they hope through Kalabaka to come finally to Athens.

Game Will Be Up

If the Germans are successful, and roll their mighty war machine through the mountain passes into Thessaly, the game will be pretty well up with the Allies in Greece. In the great parade we may see another battle of Thermopylae, at the site of the pass where the (Continued on Page 15)

U. S. Plane Pancakes on Flatbush Farm

Pilot Is Forced To Land on Farm, Damages Wheel

Dept. of Commerce Craft as Pilot Entains for Washington

A twin-motored plane, which according to what information could be secured by Sheriff Molyneux last night, was being flown by Pilot Day for the U. S. Department of Commerce, was forced down in a field on the farm of Fred Costello, between the Flatbush road and Ulster Landing, shortly after 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

It was not until 5:30 that the sheriff was notified and sent Deputy Vredenburg, Segelken and McCullough to the scene. They found that the plane had been left locked up where it had come to a stop and that the pilot had taken a train for Washington.

The plane apparently had taxied across the field without trouble until it struck a small brook, which caused it to tip, tearing off one of the landing wheels.

The sheriff learned from Albany that the plane was a Department of Commerce plane, but there was no information as to what had caused the trouble. There was a report that one of the motors had given trouble and that the second motor ran hot when forced to do extra work, making a forced landing necessary.

Following the landing there was a steady stream of sightseers visiting the scene and the owner of the field was making strenuous objection to the manner in which it was being cut up by the wheels of cars and trucks that were driven over the soft ground.

One unverified report said that the pilot was checking on airport beacons.

10,000 Die in Belgrade From Air Raids by Nazis; Nation Is Shambles

New Bill Makes All Police Subject To Sudden Duty

Governor Also Authorizes Abolition of 'Blue Ribbon Juries' and Signs Other Acts

Albany, N. Y., April 18 (AP)—Every police force in the state is subject to mobilization for emergency duty in any New York community under a bill signed by Governor Lehman.

Sponsored by Assemblyman James J. Wadsworth, Genesee Republican, the measure authorizes the governor to mobilize police forces "at a moment's notice" to any locality where emergency measures are necessary.

Stressing that strength of law enforcement during this national emergency may become as important as the power of our army and navy, Lehman said in his annual message to the Legislature: "It is obvious that acting independently present police forces (about 30,000) would be unable to cope with grave emergencies without additional resources. Under this plan, police officials in our smallest villages can receive help of other available police units from other communities."

Army Asks Half Million Volunteers To Spot Raiders

New Move in Swift Series of Defense Acts Shows How Seriously War Abroad Is Viewed

Correspondent Reports Seeing Men, Women and Children Dying on Thresholds

(Robert St. John, Associated Press correspondent stationed in Belgrade since the outbreak of war in Europe, tells, in his first dispatch since the Palm Sunday invasion, of paralyzing blows by the Luftwaffe. (St. John, born in Chicago 41 years ago, has been in the thick of Balkan events since the outbreak of war in Europe, covering the abdication of King Carol of Rumania, the Rumanian earthquake, German occupation of Bulgaria, arrival of British forces in Greece and Yugoslav developments from the entry of Russia into the Russo-Berlin-Tokyo Alliance through the dramatic political upset which resulted and the German invasion.)

By ROBERT ST. JOHN
Somewhere in Montenegro with the remnants of the Yugoslav army (via Athens, Greece) April 16 (delayed) (AP)—Mass German air attacks that killed at least 10,000 persons in Belgrade alone and turned Yugoslavia's principal cities into smoking shambles struck the paralyzing blows opening the Balkan war.

Men, women and children lay by the hundreds in the debris of their homes after concentrated Nazi bombing attacks on cities.

These civilians were ordered by their government not to clog the roads by wild flight, hampering the military as refugees did in France, but to die on their thresholds if necessary. And there they died.

For nine days I rode across Yugoslavia behind the lines, watching the army try vainly with rifles and oxcart-drawn artillery to repel the overwhelming mechanized force of Hitler's Panzer divisions and screaming Stuka bombers.

Almost from the first hour of the German invasion, the army was without communications. One division seldom knew what the one next to it was doing.

Individually, the Serbian forces fought with great bravery, and a reported inflicting heavy losses on the Germans. In one day's attack the military claimed destruction of 200 Nazi tanks.

Wedges Bite Deeper
In spite of the furious resistance, however, the German wedges bit deeper into the country and the fighting became hopeless.

I say the Serbian army fought—because in traveling about I have seen many Croatian deserters, and in the critical hours of the fighting officials announced the Croats had revolted in the north.

I was in Belgrade the morning (Continued on Page 15)

British and Greeks Take Care to Prevent Nazi Encirclement

(Edward Kennedy, for six years an Associated Press correspondent in Europe and Africa, went to Greece when the British expeditionary force moved in just before the German invasion. He has been in North Africa almost a year before that covering the British-Italian fighting in Egypt and Libya. A 34-year-old native of Brooklyn, Kennedy has worked in Rome, Paris, Budapest, Istanbul and other European capitals and the Associated Press, he is helping to cover the Spanish civil war.)

By EDWARD KENNEDY

With British forces on the Greek warfront, April 17 (Delayed) (AP)—German forces smashing ceaselessly at the Greek and British defense line have suffered enormous losses—some estimates placing the number of their dead in the Greek invasion at 50,000.

But although Nazi bodies are piled high, Adolf Hitler's high command continues to send seemingly inexhaustible divisions of powerfully armed men into the assault. Column after column of German troops, supported by dive-bombers, is being hurled against the Greek-British defense lines.

The situation is serious but not hopeless, military authorities said. For the past six days, British, Australian and New Zealand troops have met incessant attacks along the Mount Olympus line (east flank of the defense barrier) and when I left there at noon today they still were holding.

Germans Make Inroads
To the west, the Germans made some inroads from Grevena against Greeks fighting with inadequate equipment. I was told steps had been taken to prevent this drive from cutting off the British from behind.

Large troop movements were going on behind the front as the Allies sought to bolster defense positions and rectify the lines if necessary. German prisoners were being brought back in trucks.

German numerical superiority in the air is even greater than on the ground. Myriads of dive-bombers constantly harassing the defenders apparently constitute the German solution to the problem presented by the reduced efficiency of panzer divisions in mountainous country.

At Larisa, already wrecked by an earthquake and abandoned by the civilian population, I saw 40 planes swoop low again and again, first bombing and then machine-gunning.

Larisa today is a ghastly parody of a city. A famous British Hussar regiment resisted to the last round in a pass.

"After a tank attack, the Germans sent their infantry up the hill four deep," an officer told me. "We mowed down the first three rows but ran out of bullets when the fourth came."

He Watches the Cows

Ithaca, N. Y., April 18 (AP)—A Cornell University student sat in a pasture 24 consecutive hours and came up with the conclusion cows "work" on eight-hour day but even then "loaf" at times. Keith Kennedy, at Vancouver, Wash., watched the actions of a pedigreed Aberdeen Angus, found bossy grazed eight hours, spent 12 hours lying down and the remaining four hours "standing or just walking around." Kennedy reported the cow, although capable of 90 bites of grass a minute (which she did in moments of lameness), averaged 50 to 70 bites.

Duce Says Fascists Get Back Areas

Yugoslavian Struggle Is Declared at End by Axis in Claim of Surrender

Berlin Is Raided

Britons Use New Type Super-Bombs Over Berlin

(By The Associated Press)

It appeared that the 13-day-old battle of the Balkans was fast approaching its critical stage.

Premier Mussolini's high command said the Greek left wing was crumbling, with the Greeks falling back along the Adriatic sea coast in disorder while Fascist columns swept successively into Argirocastro, Premet and Porto Palermo.

The official Italian news agency said Il Duce's armies were in sight of Porto Edda—named after Mussolini's daughter—which is the last Albanian port held by the Greeks.

Australian, New Zealand and other British troops fighting in the Mt. Olympus sector were reported under terrific aerial bombardment, while on the west flank, Nazi panzer columns knifing down the Greek-Albanian border placed the Greeks in new jeopardy.

Yugoslavia's struggle was pronounced ended. Hitler's high command said surviving troops of Yugoslavia's 1-200,000-man army surrendered unconditionally effective at noon (5 a. m. E.S.T.) after 12 days of fighting.

By contrast, Holland lasted only five days against the Nazi blitzkrieg last year, Poland 18, Belgium 19, and France 45.

In the western air war, R.A.F. warplanes retaliated swiftly and violently for the Nazi Luftwaffe's attack on London Wednesday night, blasting the heart of Berlin with the war's heaviest raid on the German capital.

Super-Bombs Used

Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison said the R.A.F. struck with its new super-bombs for the first time, and he added: "Unlike the Nazis, we make no hysterical noises about reprisals. Let Hitler understand that we have as much right to bomb Berlin as he has to bomb London."

The Germans admitted that a "small force" of R.A.F. planes broke through anti-aircraft defenses and started fires in Berlin residential sections and damaged "cultural institutions," including the Prussian State Library—a reminder of the Nazi high command's threat yesterday that damage to such targets would bring prompt reprisals.

The Luftwaffe's overnight attacks centered on Portsmouth, English south coast naval base, which was bombed for several hours.

London's millions, expecting a return call, underwent two brief alerts, but no bombs fell.

Authorities in London acknowledged that the situation in Greece was "serious" but that the British-Greek line had not been pierced.

Eye-witness accounts from the battlefield said waves of German soldiers, supported by screaming dive-bombers, were being hurled incessantly at the allied defense lines with a staggering loss of life. An allied estimate said 50,000 (Continued on Page Eight)

Van Lingle Mungo Gets 20 Days for Reply to Assault Charge

New York, April 18 (AP)—Van Lingle Mungo, the Brooklyn Dodgers' temperamental pitcher, has 20 days to answer allegations that he beat up Francisco Coladara Carreno, mustached Latin dancer, at dawn in the Nacional Hotel at Havana last March 10.

Carreno contends, in a suit for $20,000, that he burst into a room and found Mungo with Mrs. Carreno and a hotel hostess. A fracas followed, Carreno says, in which he suffered injuries which have prevented him from dancing.

Mungo was banished temporarily to the Montreal International League team following the episode. Mrs. Carreno, known professionally as Christiana, recently filed suit for divorce and announced she was going back to her native Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

P. T. A. Meeting

Port Ewen, April 18—The Parent Teacher Association of Port Ewen No. 13 School held its regular monthly meeting, April 16 in the Reformed Church house. Following the secretary's and treasurer's reports, Mrs. Edward Mains reported the movie, "Men of Boys' Town," was soon to be shown in Kingston. Miss Evva White gave the final report of the Milk Fund Committee. Mrs. Burlin Winchell gave an interesting report of the meeting of the Ulster County Nutrition Committee, the slogan of which is "Making Americans strong by making strong Americans." The book award for the month was won by Miss Adiska Conno's room. After the adjournment of the business meeting the program was turned over to Troop 19, Girl Scouts, who entertained with play showing the progress of the troop during the past year.

The stage was set with a large diary made by Sally Judson, and a calendar made by Betty Schweigel. Kathleen O'Banks played the part of Father Time. With a few more sentences from the Diary Marie O'Donnell ended the play.

The program was closed with a candle-light investiture service, in which Barbara Webster, Rita Genter, Jean Lee, Edith Terwilliger and Beatrice Knoll received their Tenderfoot pins.

Each patrol had an exhibit. The judges were Mrs. Lounsberry and Miss Polhemus. The Flaming Arrow Patrol received first prize and the Pioneer Patrol second prize.

Durbin Nuptials To Be One of High Glamor for Colony

Star's Guest List Totals 900 and Event Will Be Rare in Recent History of Film Capital

Hollywood, April 18 (AP)—Deanna Durbin, a quiet girl herself, will have a glamorous wedding tonight, with 900 guests.

"This is my first romance," she remarked when she and Vaughn Paul, 25-year-old studio executive, obtained their marriage license. "And I hope it is going to be my last."

The golden voiced film singer of 19 will be married at 8:30 p. m. (11:30 p. m., E. S. T.) in Wilshire Methodist Episcopal Church by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Willis Martin. The double ring ceremony will be used.

To the smallest detail, strict rules of the big church wedding will be followed. Bridesmaids, ushers and attendants will be in formal dress.

The wedding will be one of the rare glamour ceremonies here of late years. Most actors and actresses have dashed to a nearby town—often to Arizona's Gretna Green at Yuma—been married in a civil ceremony, and rushed back to work.

Deanna and the only sweetheart she ever had will take a month's honeymoon. They did not say where.

Then they will live in a Hollywood apartment until they build a one-story English cottage in Brentwood.

Sheep Wool, Ground Fine, Makes Nutritious Food

Chicago, April 18 (AP)—Sheep's wool, ground to a fine powder, is a nutritious food.

This discovery was reported today to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by Dr. Joseph I. Routh of the State University of Iowa.

No attempts have been tried to make wool bread or wooly cake from this novel flour, but rats proved its edibility and nourishing qualities.

Up to 20 per cent of the animals' total food was given in the form of wool powder. This did not make them sick. In fact they thrived when a slight addition was made of certain proteins.

The wool, it was found, broke into amino acids in the grinding. These acids are the building stones of all proteins, which are one of the most important classes of food.

There are 10 of these acids necessary in human diet, and the powdered wool furnished all but three. By adding the trio to the powder, the rats were given what appeared to be a complete protein diet.

NORTHERN AIR BASE

War interest spreads "from Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand." It's Greenland that interests us just now.

That huge island, nearly half as big as Europe, is all one great cake of ice except for little thawed spots at intervals on the coast. Its streams are glaciers, its chief product is icebergs. It has about 16,000 Eskimo inhabitants. To these, perhaps a thousand American Caucasians will soon be added, as Uncle Sam takes over a bit of the southern end, near Cape Farewell, for air bases.

And why should Uncle Sam bother with that forbidding region? Well, it has been important ever since Colonel Lindbergh pioneered a northern air route to Europe some years ago. The route follows a "great circle" which curves from New York and Boston northeast, over Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, to southern Greenland and Iceland, and so on to the North Sea region. It is said to be the shortest American air route across the Atlantic.

Its strategic value may be realized from the fact that Nazi pioneers have been prospecting lately around southern Greenland, apparently for an air base of their own. Hitler's government has announced a German war zone only three miles from the Greenland shore. That cannot be permitted.

Thus the Cape Farewell region becomes important in the present "Battle of the Atlantic." In the future it may have great commercial as well as military value.

AMAZING DESK

The hand-carved oak desk used by Joseph Pulitzer for 28 years has just been given to the Graduate School of Journalism which he founded at Columbia University.

The desk was made for him in 1883 when he took over the World. It moved with him into the World's new building in 1890. Mr. Pulitzer used it until his death in 1911, and it remained in his private office until 1931, when his sons sold the World.

All of these facts will make the desk a shrine for newspaper people, but it has an appeal for other persons, as well. The great desk contains 99 cubbyholes and 10 drawers of various shapes and sizes. There is a little of the squirrel or the bluejay in most human beings. They love to tuck things away in pigeon holes or little boxes or drawers, and a desk that provides such a wealth of places for stowing treasures makes almost any observer long for a chance to use it.

Realists, however, would suppress that desire if they saw any likelihood of its being granted. Think of the problem of finding just what you wanted when you wanted it, in the midst of 109 possible lurking places! And think of the decennial housecleaning that an over-active conscience might require!

NEW CARS

It's incredible how many shiny new cars there are on the road now. It seems to mark the arrival of another era. Have cars sold so fast, or so easily, at any other time since 1929?

There are two possible explanations. One is, people are making so much money now that they naturally go right out and buy what they want most—usually new cars. The other is that millions of Americans are afraid it may be their last chance—that we may soon find ourselves in a situation where there won't be any more new cars for years.

Some of us think we could make a shrewd guess—but it would seem like meddling with the market.

GAS IN 4941

It is pleasant to learn from Washington that something besides war and politics is under consideration. Something that comes right home to every man in America, and to women, too. It's the gasoline supply.

Remember how we used to worry about it during the last business boom, when experts were telling us almost to the year when our last reserves of mineral oil and automotive fuel would be used up? We have been burning gasoline faster and faster, but the oil tank seems like the biblical "widow's cruse." The bottom of the barrel is never reached. Indeed, the more we use, the more there is.

This comes from the discovery of new petroleum supplies and improved methods of refining, also from learning how to make gasoline from other substances.

The latest information on raw materials sweeps away worry. We can make all the gasoline we need from coal, the experts say, and there is enough in sight to last us 3,000 years. After that, we should worry!

UNITED BALKAN STATES

There should have been a United States of the Balkans long ago. That, to an American, seems evident from any map, and seems still clearer in such a war as is in progress there now.

Together, with a central government, those little states, every one of them naturally vigorous and intelligent, might save themselves by presenting a united front to invasion from any quarter. As matters stand, Hitler divides them and kicks them around.

"But," many people say, "how could they unite, when they are composed of so many different races, languages and cultures, and separated by ancient feuds?" And the obvious answer is, "Look how they get along in America." We have all those races here living together harmoniously, united by the solvent of our common democracy.

We have, of course, the advantage of scattering them around more and spreading them thinner. That is hard to do in the old countries. But if those stout and energetic Balkan nations could be shaken up—and down—together, what a country they would make!

Lieutenant General Hugh A. Drum says that the public spirit is lagging in our defense program. Wouldn't it be a little more correct to blame it on those responsible for the strikes rather than the general public?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

 INJECTION OF VARICOSE VEINS

A few years ago when the injection method for removing varicose veins came into general use, many disappointments occurred because some varicose veins returned. This was due in many cases to the fact that they were not "tested" before injection. Other poor results were due to unsatisfactory hardening solutions. By testing is meant testing to see if the deep veins in the leg will carry the blood upwards to the heart should the outside veins be removed by operation or injection.

A simple test outlined by Dr. Robert R. Linton, Boston, in the Journal of the Maine Medical Association is as follows:

With the patient standing, a tourniquet (band that can be tightened) is placed around the leg well up on the thigh which obstructs the surface or superficial veins including those which are varicose. The patient then lies on his back and the leg is raised upward a few inches (20 to 30 degrees). If the surface veins are empty with the tourniquet in place, the deep veins must be open and able to return the blood from the leg toward the heart. Good results can thus be expected by operation or injection.

In outlining the method used that greatly reduces the number of cases in which varicose veins return after the injection method, Dr. Linton states that the patient is admitted to hospital the night before operation and "operation" is done under a local anesthetic. This operation is the tying off of the large surface vein near the groin. Immediately after this simple operation, the patient is requested to walk 2 minutes, at least, out of every hour until bedtime. The patient is allowed to leave the hospital the day following the operation. Five days later the patient returns and the injection treatment begins.

In many cases, even the tying off of the large surface vein is done in the physician's office and the patient returns once a week and one of two of the varicose veins are injected each time.

It is this method of tying off this large surface vein and using a reliable sclerosing or hardening solution that has caused surgeons to use the injection treatment in most of their cases.

There are, of course, cases where complications make the removal of varicose veins difficult and surgery must be used in order to get satisfactory results.

With sand threatening to choke up their harbor, the people of Grand Haven, Mich., are doing something about it. For years a huge dune has been showering tons of sand into the Grand River, necessitating frequent dredging by engineers. This year the citizens of Grand Haven are determined to "tie down" Dewey Hill once and for all. The city has acquired 83,000 pine trees, and on April 19 the whole community will march on the hill, armed with shovels and buckets, to plant them. The volunteers, with the help of CCC workers, will cover about 40 acres with the trees. It is expected that the pines, together with the beach grass planted by a CCC crew, will hold the sand in place and help protect the harbor. The planting is a part of the work of the West Ottawa soil conservation district, started in the Grand Haven area two years ago.

HUNG UP!

BABSON ON BUSINESS

MORE GOVERNMENT THAN EVER

But Babson Still is an Optimist

New York, April 18.—If any reader believes that the Administration has set aside its social reforms he is sadly mistaken. Washington may give the impression that it is working hand in hand with manufacturers on the defense program. Certainly, we have a right to expect that. In this period of national emergency personal ambitions would be set aside. Our leaders in Washington surely should bury the hatchet of hate for business. If anything will save England, Canada, and this country, it will be an "all out" schedule of production through the co-operation of the Administration and our business leaders. For a year or more, business has forgotten itself in an attempt to back out of the Administration. Unfortunately, the New Dealers have not been able to relieve the pressure on business.

Washington Grows Bigger
 In my several trips to the Capital, I have been greatly impressed with the bureaucracy that is growing up there. It is bigger than anything this country has ever seen and shows no sign of slackening off. Of course, much of this is necessary for national defense. The Army and Navy Departments are justified in their growth; but too much of the increased personnel of other government departments has been unsuccessfully developed under the smoke screen of national defense. Readers who can possibly do so should visit Washington and see and hear what is going on there.

Our present national emergency is a great gift to the New Dealers who, while outwardly quiet, are by no means asleep at the switch. If they had their way I fear they would kick the dollar-a-year businessmen out of Washington and take over their work. The President is too wise to permit this. Such an act would slow up much of the practical defense work which, in spite of everything, is moving along. It would also bring into the open the personal jealousies, the continual bids for power, and the real program of the old New Dealers who still have the President's ear. The defense program appears to have taken first place in the heart and mind of Washington; but it is being used by a small group as a means of promoting further governmental power over business.

Methods of Control
 Capital and labor have always had their difficulties and always will. This is really a healthy state. Our high standards of living are due much to the efforts of certain intelligent and unselfish labor leaders. On the other hand, management usually is willing to meet the demand of employees halfway. Left alone, sensible and honest leaders of both sides could settle their difficulties. Neither side needs nor wants government interference in settling wage disputes and in establishing policies. The Administration, however, is being forced by irresponsible radicals to take an increasingly active part in the disputes between management and labor. If this keeps on increasing, it will end by the government outlawing strikes and putting both employers and workers into uniforms, at least for the period of the national emergency.

Bankers and investors have so long been subject to controls that they are more hardened to them than are manufacturers and other businessmen. Most businessmen, however, are scared stiff. It is by no means the scareheads from abroad that are keeping the stock market stagnant. Most of Hitler's moves, including any spring drive against England, have already been discounted. It is fear by businessmen of further internal domestic regulations and taxes which paralyzes markets and slows up defense work.

A Planned Production
 Once the New Dealers were talking about a Planned Economy. This included fixing prices for farmers, a redistribution of property, and many other broadly socialistic ideas. Fortunately for the country, the Roosevelt Administration has thus far never quite got the machinery set up to accomplish this. Now they have given it to them on a silver platter in the form of the Defense Program. The new term for our coming economic order is Planned Production! Through priority controls alone, the government can plan industry's entire activity.

In World War I, the War Industries Board and other agencies functioned independently of politics. Today, the program is largely directed and controlled by the Administration's bureaucracy. No organization, except the charitable ones like the Red Cross, functions free of red tape. Yet, I have confidence this will cure itself if you voters will only write your Congressman how you feel. I am still bullish on the United States. President Roosevelt is getting wiser as he becomes older. Even New Dealers leave Washington when some New York law firm offers them more money! Honesty, hard work, and thrift will make you succeed whoever runs Washington.

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBI

"In My Father's House," by James Street

You may remember two of James Street's recent productions: "The Biscuit Eater" and "Oh, Promised Land." If you do, take a position midway between the two and you will be ready to read his new novel. This is "In My Father's House," in which the transition from boy to man is made plain in the story of a Mississippi family through the period of its worst tragedy. Little Hob is the chief character and the narrator of Mr. Street's novel, and therein lies both its strength and its weakness.

Its strength, because Little Hob is as delightful a boy as you could find. Its weakness because in order to make clear the implications of his story, Mr. Street must occasionally force upon Little Hob a maturity and knowledge beyond his years. Sometimes he must do this, and deny doing it in the same paragraph—disturbing.

Little Hob and Big Hob, his father, are very close. Teenie and Little Hob's mother are likewise close. And Teenie and Little Hob love each other in the conventional brother and sister fashion until the family blight descends, then the relationship tightens.

These Abernathys were, probably, crackers. But they were not shiftless—they were the opposite. Big Hob was one of those who understood the land as well as the people. He was weatherwise, energetic, gay when gayety was proper, earnest in a religious sense, honest to the last mill and the perfect father. Ma was a true mate. Little Hob was following in his father's path. And Teenie was in love with one of the neighbor boys whose two ambitions were to marry her and to buy a truck with which to earn side money.

The difficulty was that Big Hob, who would never permit an animal to be caged, lost his perspective and forbade Teenie and her lover to marry until the girl was a little older. The expected happened, and the result was death, and worse. From this point the story is Mr. Street's. He tells it simply, with utter sincerity. The result is not "just another farm novel." It comes close to being a work of art.

Answers to What Will Happen to Business as Against Taxes and Strikes Will Decide National Socialism Issue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 18 — Will American business and industry be ground between the upper millstone of high taxes and the nether millstone of wage increases forced by strikes and threats of strikes? Will the government by official edict coerce industry into holding prices down, though doing nothing to discourage the mechanism whereby labor gets virtually anything it asks for?

On the answer to these questions depends whether the American economic system is going to be demoralized in the next eight months to such an extent that the "planned economy" advocates, and the public ownership devotees who are still influential in President Roosevelt's third-term administration will look upon the consequent chaos as a justification for the start of what might be called a system of national socialism.

Administration officials are pretty touchy when labels are applied to them, and the fact is they are not deliberately embarked on any program to upset the system of private initiative, but they are handling so clumsily the economic side of our war preparations that, even though they may be sincerely anxious to prevent it, they are going to bring on a situation which may never be ameliorated when the war is over.

The reason is that in the government today the right hand does not know what the left is doing. The blunders in handling the labor problem have been camouflaged and soft-pedaled. The administration has shown itself timid about labor. It has had but one answer to all labor disputes — give the strikers their way, permit compulsory unionization, and when violence occurs, pass the buck to the states.

Within the last fortnight two major industries have undergone a surgical operation. One is steel and the other is coal. In the matter of steel, wage increases have been looked upon with favor by the administration and these have been granted. Now when the industry wants to move the price up, the administration announces it will "crack down" and use some form of coercion vaguely derived from abstractly worded laws. As for the coal strike, the C. I. O. again had its way and wage increases are being ordered, but the administration is reported to be ready through the price-fixing machinery of the Guffey Coal Act Commission here to tolerate a price increase.

But, supposing prices are held down and profits are cut down by reason of the enormous increases in payroll, what will leave the tax collector with the United States Treasury? Secretary Morgenthau has just announced that he expects a new law to collect a third more taxes next year above the existing rates. Somebody is going to have to pay that bill, and if corporate profits are confiscated, there will have to be sales taxes and other levies reaching into the laboring man's pay envelope. This, being political, is avoided for the time being.

The idea of substantially increasing the output per man and thus reducing costs even as wages are increased, doesn't appeal to the administration, because it has never had the temerity to tell labor it must do anything to cooperate beyond a pious expression here and there. No steps have been taken to accelerate the output per man per hour. Indeed, losses of man-hours due to strikes are glossed over by the highest government officials.

This sort of refusal to face facts cannot last long. Sooner or later prices have a way of skyrocketing not because of the law of supply and demand alone, but because of a fear that the government itself is incompetent as a handler of fiscal affairs.

All the rest of the world which is at war has found it necessary to lengthen hours and increase output per man. But in America time-and-a-half for overtime, which can undiminish seriously the American capacity for recuperation once the war is over.

Somebody has to give way in the picture. Everybody can't have his cake and eat it, too.

The nation is trying to remain united behind the President. Thus far he has shown himself bold in international policy and on the alert to head off Hitler's dream of world conquest. But he retains in his cabinet men who preach hatred and class disunity and he has put into key positions in the defense program men who have shown themselves hostile to industry or incompetent as administrators in government.

The so-called dollar-a-year men really have no power. They are over-shadowed by New Dealers and, as long as this is the case, there can be no enthusiasm among industrialists for a maximum, all-out effort. Mr. Roosevelt may lose this war on the home front because his leadership has not yet risen to the point of treating all groups alike and putting the most efficient men in the highest posts irrespective of whether they have been champions of his political or reform programs.

When the President asks labor to make sacrifices comparable to those he is forcing upon industry, he will be amazed at the unity which his program will command from every quarter. For at present the rank and file of labor is willing to cooperate, and only the profiteering union organizers and some of the high-salaried national labor chieftains are standing in the way of progress by playing labor politics with wage increases. "AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The Old Timers reunion dinner meeting held recently at the local Y. M. C. A. was an outstanding success and those who attended enjoyed it to the full extent for many of the men came into contact with the men with whom they had enjoyed the "Y" activities as boys.

The guest of honor was James Osterhout, aged 92 years, of Franklin street, the only surviving charter member of the association, and he recalled the early days of the "Y" when for a brief time he served as general secretary while A. J. Harder, the first general secretary of the association, was absent.

Mr. Osterhout recalled when W. A. Horn became secretary of the "Y." At that time Mr. Osterhout was serving as acting secretary of the association and he met Mr. Horn at the train and took him home to dinner. Mr. Horn was secretary of the "Y" in the early 1900's, and left here for California.

Associated with Mr. Horn was C. William Bingham as boys work secretary and W. W. Brundage as physical director. The days when they were in charge of the "Y" were recalled at the reunion by many of the old timers present.

It was also interesting to hear a letter read from Gus Bonesteel, now with the "Y" in Rochester. Gus had been invited to attend the dinner, but owing to the fact that the next evening he was holding a camp reunion of some 300 boys in Rochester he was unable to get away.

Gus in the letter recalled some of the old timers, many of whom were present at the reunion. Old timers recalled the summer days when Gus was chef at the "Y" summer camps, and recalled the tasty meals he prepared for the hungry campers.

Brundage, as I recalled in previous sketches, died some years ago in Buffalo. At the time he left Kingston he went to Buffalo to take up work with the Boy Scouts. He was one of the finest physical directors to work at the local "Y."

Not only was he an athlete of ability but he was witty and humorous as older readers who attended the annual "Y" minstrels at the turn of the century will recall. With Brundage as one of the endmen the success of the show was assured. Bonesteel was also a widely known endman.

It is interesting to recall that the first "Y" was organized in Kingston upon Hudson in 1890. The first "Y" was organized in 1890. Kingston and Rondout united and formed the present Kingston Central Y. M. C. A. in 1896.

Village Notes

New Palz, April 17 — The high school assembly program on Friday consisted entirely of things musical with Mrs. A. Arras directing the band, playing "Safely" and "Saskatchewan." The two numbers it planned to do at Walkill Monday. Don Hoffman gave a clarinet number from the selection he was going to play at Hudson Saturday. The Glee Club sang "Czechoslovakian Dance Song" and "Celtic Lullaby." Betsy Lent played an interpretation of Paderewski's "Minuet." Lewis Shaffert played an arrangement of the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria."

Don Hoffman, clarinetist, entered the New York state clarinet competition at Hudson last Saturday and brought home first place which makes him officially high in the state.

Bill Clinton of New Palz High School took fourth place in the oratorical contest at the Municipal Auditorium in Kingston last Friday evening.

of the "Y" and was purchased in 1898. The building which houses the gym was erected in 1898 in the rear of the old hotel.

In 1911 the old hotel was torn down and the present fine building on Broadway erected following a successful 10-days campaign to raise $75,000. As I recall it more than the amount needed was raised in that time.

Dr. Klemperer Files $200,000 Law Case

New York, April 18 (P.)—Dr. Otto Klemperer, former conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, has filed a $200,000 suit in state supreme court against the managers of the Wellington House, a private sanitarium on the Boston Post Road, Rye, N. Y.

The action was based on a charge of false arrest in Morristown, N. J., last March 2, where Dr. Klemperer was detained by police for 26 hours after he had left the sanitarium. The conductor-composer was taken in custody after Rye police broadcast an alarm saying he had been detained. He was released shortly after his wife, a daughter and a son arrived in Morristown from Los Angeles. In his complaint, filed yesterday, Dr. Klemperer asserted he was accused of carrying a cane which "he likes to use on policemen."

Katherine Maurer, Red Cross stenographer at San Francisco, smiles after being notified she had been appointed to a post at Fort Richardson, Anchorage, Alaska, by the Red Cross—after making an "informal pledge" she wouldn't get married for at least two years. Red Cross officials said there are comparatively few young women in Alaska and these do not remain single long.

Reason for Editor's Murder in Doubt

Chicago, April 18 (P.)—A theory that John F. Arena's editorial attacks on pro-Fascists led to the slaying of the Italian language newspaper editor weakened today on the basis of fresh evidence.

Police Sgt. George Brady reported that among papers found in Arena's office yesterday was a copy of a letter the editor had sent in 1939 to Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda chief. Sgt. Brady said that in the letter Arena had offered his services in behalf of the German cause. The officer also said he learned from Arena's secretary, Miss Betty Eich, that the editor had been on friendly terms with the German consulate in Chicago.

In recent issues of his paper, La Tribuna, Arena published editorials against what he termed "fifth-column activities" by a member of the Chicago Italian consulate. Police Capt. Patrick O'Connell said that there were so many clues that investigators have been unable to determine the exact motive for the murder of the editor, who was slain by two gunmen on a street Wednesday night.

Union Is Making Effort to Secure Local Members

Efforts to unionize the clothing factories of Kingston are being made by the local union of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, and it is said that the effect is meeting with some success at the Manhattan Shirt factory on Hoffman street.

Inquiry at the local union office brought out the information that union officials had nothing to say for publication at this time.

There are approximately 300 men and women employed at the local Manhattan factory at the present time. For several days the local union has been holding a series of open air meetings on Pine Grove avenue at Broadway.

Someday I'll Find You

By MARGARET WIDEMER

YESTERDAY: One minute Eileen Gardner had thought her life pretty well in hand, marriage with Jordan built in the offing. But in the midst of her post-graduation party Eileen jumped literally into the arms of a man named Martin, and now she has tracked Martin to another party, ostensibly to return the little gold ski he lost. Martin's group is just leaving.

Chapter Four Desperate Cry

THE crowd surged forward. They were pressing close to the distinguished group as it crossed the door. Eileen tried to force her way through, to get at least close enough to Martin to catch his eyes, to quickly ask his name and shove the ski into his hand.

But the people who had already met the party, the very important university and society set, the various notabilities who had been bidden to meet Miss Willeford and the other famous ones with her, were a solid mass around the party company. Their voices rose loud.

Eileen, despairing, still tried to force herself through. But she was little and slender, and notabilities have a way of fattening in middle age. She merely got a terrible look from the two nearest dowagers.

"This isn't a bargain sale, young woman," the wife of the biggest businessman in the city hissed at her. It was not until the others were halfway down the swinging pavement to their cars that Eileen got free, even to see them.

"Martin!" she called desperately.

He was just helping the shyness of a young secretary into the limousine. He turned at the voice, he looked up and laughed and waved. Then he was inside, the door slammed, and he was gone.

The group inside the hall loosened, fell apart into chattering smaller units with a thrilled and gratified air. Eileen heard the scraps of talk: "Isn't she wonderful?" "The dear Senator is so simple and genuine."

"They are doing a wonderful work." And a couple of gruff dissentient male voices: "Futile." "Lot of poppycock, these South American missions."

Not a word about Martin. Martin, who had flown two thousand miles to say good-bye to someone in the group. She had to know. She would know.

She gripped the arm of the nearest girl. A girl would know. Annette Noyes, the daughter of a social leader, cool, correct, rather old young woman in evening glasses and a red chiffon import.

"Annette. Who was that blond boy in flying clothes who came down the stairs with the South American party?"

"She tried not to seem eager. Annette never was."

Annette was, however—for her. "Nobody seems to know," she answered with a shrug of excitement. "He dashed in just as they all went up to the dressing rooms to get their wraps and ran upstairs. The women poured out of the dressing rooms to make a fuss over him—everybody was acting as if he was Clark Gable. There wasn't time to introduce him to the hostess, or they didn't want to. Somebody said he'd flown from New York just to say good-bye to somebody in the party, and was just catching a steamer from California to somewhere. He might have been engaged to any of those three girls, the way they acted."

Annette looked annoyed. She plainly felt it was discourteous. "Then he was going to New Zealand?"

"Did you know him?" Annette demanded.

"No—no," Eileen slid away, unheeding Annette's avid questioning. She tried the hostess, who was not too pleased at being stopped, as she trotted to a back room with some cronies for an after-party discussion.

"I don't know," Mrs. Onderdonk said. "Really, the manners of the present day, my dear child, they are all so queer."

He crashed the gate, as they call it. Ran upstairs, burst into the women's dressing room. Came back without a word to me—to me, the hostess!

"Possibly some important secret message," suggested another of the women, her prominent eyes widened at the idea. "You know, after all, Ida, nothing is too wild to happen. It might have been one of the young Roosevelt's they are all blond—"

"I know them. It wasn't," snapped Mrs. Onderdonk. "A playboy, that was what he was. What he had all the marks of being. Flying across the continent that crazy way for two minutes with some chit in the group. Some decadent young New York waster."

No Luck

EILEEN let the group of fussing dowagers drop past her. Older people were such idiots. She walked to the back of the rooms and found a telephone. The airport.

The airport did not know it. It seemed to her that they almost overdid not know that there were people with private flying fields. And that perhaps that was where Martin had taken off. But that was a dead end. You couldn't find out that way.

You couldn't find out any way. Eileen stopped herself, as she came out of the little telephone room. Was she crazy—clever, capable little Eileen Gardner, who had been planning her life so carefully and carefully till now? She looked around the room. Jordan had lost her. He was up at the other end of the farthest parlor. He was talking agreeably to one of the older professors; one of a black-coated group who were standing round a mantelpiece, gossiping and relaxed. The sight of him, so casual, so kind, so sane, so ambitious, should have pulled her back to herself as she had been.

She took one step toward him. Then she halted. There was another group, near them. Not so important; the women's dresses were brighter and more trimmed and less expensive, the men laughed louder—a couple of voices with a foreign accent echoed toward her. The musical and artistic group, drawn together in secret boredom with the others, clustered in chairs and on a stool or so.

One man had a leg thrown over his chair arm, one of the younger women was on a floor cushion—even here in the sacred Order-donk mansion. The group's center was a middle-aged woman with a tanned, plump, intense face and long banged hair, flitted with unbecoming gold ribbon that had probably by its creases come off a candy box. Her dress was artistic but badly made, and her shoes were wrong for it.

But her vitality made up for all that. She was laughing and gesticulating with one hand; the other, as usual, imprisoned in that of the dark man with a crumpled shirt front who sat close by her, his spectacled eyes doglike on hers. The Weigands.

Eileen came close to them. She stood above them, and waited till Martha Weigand's last staccato sentence came to its close. Then she spoke, deliberately.

"I wanted to talk to you. That audition you wrote me about, Mrs. Weigand."

Retrospect

"IT ISN'T like her," her aunt said. She looked up from the pile of exercises she was correcting.

The neat, little old mission desk, in a corner of the square, trim, inexpensively pretty living room, was what Eileen always remembered as her aunt's natural background. She belonged there, much more than at any of her other occupations.

Miss Gardner had a life which, she said brightly, was a very satisfactory one. A broad life, she called it, with innocent pride. She and Helen Doran were popular with the other teachers in their school.

There was their group—two tables of bridge—which met fortnightly on Friday evenings, with a couple of bachelor teachers, a married assistant principal and his wife. It had small jokes which had become more grown for a generation; it had predestined partners, who knew each other's ways; it had a final gala night once a winter when the gentlemen took the ladies to a real show, with a two-dollar table d'hôte dinner beforehand.

When Louise Gardner's brother and sister-in-law had died, close together, of flu in a bad flu winter in the late twenties, Miss Lou had taken over sixteen-year-old Eileen as a matter of course. Everybody had always had high hopes about Eileen. Even Helen Doran, who had been pretty and popular in a tall, dark, serious way, and had lost her lover in the World War. The two women felt that it was a sort of carrying on the torch when the boys began to flood the little apartment; they smiled reminiscently over telephone calls by shy gruff young voices, and high-school girls giggling with Eileen in little groups after school.

Miss Louise didn't know it, but in her dim way at Eileen's decision to go a hundred miles away and take a job that did not pay a living wage, there was not only an unselfish concern for her niece's welfare, but dismay at losing her greatest pride and most valuable possession.

"But darling, any moron can go sing love songs down a radio," she murmured. "What about your intellectual life? And you had such a high I.Q."

"Black mark for brains," Eileen quoted to herself. She remembered every word Martin had said in that brief ten minutes, it seemed.

She was sorting a pile of sheet music, on one long, narrow, and many-anything table that served for a living-room piece and a dining table. Its makeshift elegance was all of a piece, she suddenly realized, with all of Aunt Louise's ways. She wanted, impatiently, either to eat sitting on a packing box or in a room especially for dining. Her usually deft hands blundered, and the plaster-bronzed book end in the shape of Rodin's "Thinker" went over and was just saved.

"But any moron can be a secretary to a professor, too," she said.

"It's safe."

Eileen laughed. "Who wants to be safe?"

"It probably wouldn't be for long. I'd like to see you in a little home of your own."

"They have them in lots of places besides here," Eileen said demurely; "or perhaps, if you married some kinds of men, you might prefer just alighting for a while and going on again. A shack in New Zealand. A casual hut in Hawaii."

How beautiful
The sun shining bright and clear,
How wonderful to live
In the springtime of the year.
How beautiful to hear
The songs of birds up in the trees,
How refreshingly fragrant to inhale
The gentle apple blossomed breeze
How wonderful to watch
The orchard budding anew,
How great it is to live
Under a sky of turquoise blue.

The Answer
A better world
Comes when
We start becoming Better men.

Teacher — Johnny, give a sentence using the word sphere.
Johnny — I have a sphere cold.

One Guess
O, relatives are excellent
But tell me, please, why is it
They think your days are idly spent
Unless they come to visit?

Housewife — Didn't you say, before I gave you your dinner, that you would work for it?
Tramp — Ma'am I did, lady. I wuz dat hungry me mind wuz wanderin' an' I might uv said 'most anything.

Forty thousand manufacturing firms process the food that is produced and sold to them by America's six million farmers.

Smith — Who invented the radio?
Jones — Give it up. What's the answer?
Smith — Adam, he took some spare parts and made the first loud speaker.

It would be tragic if people had to wait as long for the doctor to come as he waits for his money.

Sleeping Jim — The last issue of twenty-dollar bills was printed on a very poor grade of paper.
Dozy Sam — That so? It's funny I haven't noticed it.

And had you ever noticed how little the law oppresses any man who attends to his own business?

Millionaire (speaking to a body of students) — All my success, all my tremendous prestige, I owe to one thing alone—pluck-pluck.

Student — But how are we to find the right people to pluck?

He was so short that when he felt ill he didn't know whether he had a toothache or corns.

Child — Mother shall I run out and post this letter?
Mother — No, child, certainly not. It's pouring torrents and not fit to turn a dog out of doors. Let your father go.

Our new friends are very likely to be like our old ones, partly since it is often through the old that we meet the new and partly because like seeks like in the present and future as in the past.

A gushing visitor was visiting in the home of a young married couple who became proud parents several months ago.
Visitor — And how your baby learned to talk yet?
Proud Papa — Oh, my yes. Yes, we're teaching him to keep quiet now.

The main difference between people in large towns and people in small towns is that the former live in large towns and the latter in small ones.

Doctor (after administering treatment to patient) — How did you come to take that stuff, didn't you read the sign on the bottle, which plainly said "Poison"?

Dumb Dan — Sure, but I didn't believe it.
Doctor — Why not?
Dumb Dan — Cause right underneath it said "Lye."

The best way to dispose of an unpleasant task is to do it. Usually it cannot be dodged, and certainly it does not become any more pleasant with age.

Young Bragger — My grandfather built the Rocky Mountains.
Unsympathetic Listener — Aw, that's nothing. Do you know the Dead Sea? Well, my grandfather killed it.

Halifax to Address American Editors; Discussion Is Held

Assertion Press Is Related Too Closely to Wealth Brings on Spirited Reply to Charge

Washington, April 18 (AP)—A spirited round-table discussion on the general subject of the "business connections" of the press sent the American Society of Newspaper Editors into its concluding sessions today with an intimate study of the European war situation in prospect.

Peter H. Odegard, political science instructor at Amherst College, set off the wide-open debate on newspapers and business interests late yesterday when he charged the press with lack of independence and too close ties with wealth.

The argument concluded after half a dozen editors had offered prompt rebuttal and Odegard had declared that compared with German, French and British papers, the press of America had "no competitors for accuracy, honesty, independence and integrity."

The two-day convention will end tonight with an off-the-record banquet to be addressed by Lord Halifax, the British ambassador; Col.

William J. Donovan, the administration's recent unofficial emissary to Europe and Africa, and Laughlin Currie, administrative assistant to President Roosevelt.

Odegard started the "business connections" discussion with a speech in which he said that "if the press is in actual fact the palladium of the people's rights it need have no fear for its power, its influence or its freedom."

"But in too many cases," he continued, "newspapers worry about their power when they had better be worried about their principles; they get jittery with fear for their influence when what should really concern them is their integrity."

Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo (Ohio) Blade, said Odegard had read a "brilliant paper," but took him to task for "lumping us all into the same general field." Seventy-five per cent of the newspapers are "doing a good job," Patterson said, and only about 25 per cent might be guilty of some of the "guilt of conscience" listed by the professor.

Mayor Proclaims Tag Day in City

Dedication Is in Behalf of Local Day Nursery

The following is Mayor C. J. Heiselman's proclamation for the Volunteers of America Tag Day:

As mayor of the City of Kingston, I take great pleasure in proclaiming, Saturday, April 19th, as Tag Day for the Volunteers of America who conduct an Emergency Home and Day Nursery on Barmann avenue in this city.

This organization is worthy of the generous support of all our citizens. The work that is carried on by the Volunteers requires funds and these funds are entirely derived from the contributions of generous citizens.

The Day Nursery which is operated in conjunction with the Emergency Home is used to care for those children whose parents or guardians must work during the day to support them and therefore cannot give them the necessary care and attention during that time. Often illness prevents some less fortunate mother from properly caring for her children and the Nursery stands ready to assist in such cases. Capable attendants supervise the children and insure that they are adequately fed while at the institution.

The Emergency Home is conducted to offer assistance to indigent transient women and children who may find shelter and assistance there.

Ancient Road Found

How messengers and spies of ancient times traveled so quickly between Peru and Chile has been solved after hundreds of years of mystery. The Club Andino de Chile and the Chilean Ski Club reported in Santiago that they have found an old route, once passable on mules, but now practically covered by rock falls. It stretches directly over the mountains and at one point reaches an altitude of over 15,000 feet.

Rent Racket Curbed

Rent racketeers in Glasgow, Scotland, are being forced out of business. The Women's Voluntary Service has prepared a landladies' register to aid wives and dependants of soldiers in finding rooms at reasonable cost. "A reasonable price," according to the women, is $2 a week for a furnished room and $7 a week for room and board.

Farmer Held as Killer

When Henry Slater, underworld king, was shot to death in Sydney, Australia, last October, the police expected to run down the killer in some city slum, but after a long search they have arrested a poultry farmer. The assassin was seen to shoot down Slater near Yarra Bay shanty town, pump a second bullet into the body and then leisurely ride away on a bicycle. The accused has been running a small poultry farm in the neighborhood. He left Melbourne 10 years ago following a gun duel in which Squizzy Taylor, self-styled king of the Melbourne underworld, and Snowy Cutmore, a Sydney gunman, shot it out in an apartment house. Slater gained some of his experience as a gunman in the United States.

Japan Gets Own Plant

With all possible speed a steel company at Tobata is building a new machine tool plant. Some of the larger machine tools probably will be purchased in Germany instead of in the United States as originally planned. The new plant will manufacture tools of any size in sufficient quantity to make Japan independent of foreign sources.

Planes Land Pick-a-Back On Colliding; Pilots Safe

M'CLEOD, ALBERTA.—A strange air accident, in which one plane climbed pick-a-back on the other in midair and both landed with pilots uninjured, was told of today by officials of the MacLeod air station flying school.

The aviators, both flying solo in Avra Anson training planes, were Leading Aircraftmen J. H. McKeown of Ottawa and L. A. Boll of Jasper, Alberta, members of the Royal Canadian air force.

Officials said the pilots were approaching the landing field, neither aware of the other's intention, when their machines collided and locked about 50 feet in the air. They stayed at their controls and brought their planes down to a twin landing, one on top of the other. Only the bottom plane was badly damaged.

Will Meet Challenge

Washington, April 18 (AP)—The government is prepared to meet any effort to challenge its authority to control prices, defense officials said today, although public opinion has been the principal weapon for enforcement of the so far issued. The possibility of a test of authority arose this week when an order was issued freezing steel and iron prices. Steel men claimed it would prove injurious to the industry. Indicating a fight might be avoided, however, price control authorities said today that the order was subject to modification anytime investigation showed that to be necessary.

Cut Production Of 1942 Model Cars 20 Per Cent

Production of 1942 model cars will be cut 20 per cent in the season starting August first, O. P. M. Commissioner Knudsen announced yesterday following a conference with leaders of the entire automobile and truck producing industry. This cut is spoken of as an "initial" one and may be followed by others. On the basis of 1940 production it means a cut of around 1,000,000 cars and trucks. Purpose is to make available more man power, materials and facilities for carrying out the defense program. Will make available immense amounts of many needed materials, including 1,437,262 tons of steel, 295,893 tons of iron, 5,035 tons of aluminum, 26,400 tons of copper and 2,400 tons of tin. Action probably will result in a firming of prices for used cars.

Administration and congressional leaders yesterday are said to have agreed on a three and a half billion revenue bill. It is seen as foreshadowing an increase of from 25 to 50 per cent, or more, in rates, a reduction of credits and exemptions and imposition of some new taxes. The move to cut auto production and the greatly increased tax levy proposed, in addition to providing defense materials and raising revenues also will have the effect of curbing the American consumer and tend to check rising prices, it is declared. The Justice Department is taking note of alleged artificial increases in food prices. Said that by midsummer there will be 150 attorneys working on the food price drive. Steels were somewhat lower yesterday as there was mild selling following consideration of the situation brought on by the recent wage increase coupled with the government's action in freezing prices. Losses were fractional, however and at the low point drop was not significant. Market was erratic and net changes were small. Dow-Jones industrials dropped .44, to 118.16 and utilities lost .04, to close at 18.45. Rails were a little stronger and had a small net gain of .05, to close at 28.27.

Most commodities declined yesterday. Both futures and spot indices had small net losses, for the day. Wheat dropped as much as 1/2 cent a bushel at Chicago; cotton was two points lower to one higher. Cottonseed oil went to the highest level in four years. Bids in New York for extra tallow at the recent high price of 7 1/2 cents a pound were only partly satisfied. Cuban and hides were steady on further consumer buying. Demand for lead continued heavy, with inquiries greater than daily production.

Italians Claim Greek Wing Fails

Nazis had been slain in Hitler's blitzkrieg smash into the Aegean kingdom, and it was declared that British troops in the Mt. Olympus zone had hurled back repeated mass attacks by German infantry for six days. The towering, snow-capped Mt. Olympus, mythical home of Greece's ancient gods, was said to be resounding day and night to the roar of dive bombers. Hitler's high command said 17,000 prisoners had been taken on the Greek front and that the battle was going successfully for Germany despite "the most difficult terrain and weather conditions."

Other Nazi reports said that the Germans had taken many British prisoners in a systematic series of thrusts into northern Thessaly—gateway to southern Greece—and that the invasion was moving ahead "on schedule."

Front-line advances declared that Nazis bodies were piled high, with the German high command still plunging fresh and seemingly inexhaustible divisions of men and machines into the assault.

In Grave Peril Fascist dispatches said the Greek army retreating from Kili-sura, in central Albania, was in grave peril of being cut off by Italian troops driving toward Perat on the Greek-Albanian frontier.

A maneuver to encircle enemy armies drawn up between the Osum river and the sea is in full swing, the Italian high command said. "The enemy, everywhere pursued by our troops and machine-gunned and bombed by our air squadrons, is falling back in disorder."

In the north, Il Duce's fascist legions were reported to have completed occupation of the Yugoslav coast with the junction by columns from the north and south at Dubrovnik.

Berlin said Gen. Dusan Simovic, who took over the government of Yugoslavia in a coup which enthroned 17-year-old King Peter II and overthrew the pro-Axis regime of Regent Prince Paul, had fled the country.

On the African war front, British officials said the German-Italian drive into Egypt toward the Suez canal had stopped and that for the last 48 hours the Axis forces had taken a "defensive attitude" around Tobruk, Libya, and Salum, Egypt.

Cairo dispatches said the British fleet was raining hundreds of tons of shells into Axis forces west of Salum, destroying long columns of motor transport.

Taxes Might Hit Incomes, Wages

Individual taxpayers who now pay rates starting at 44 per cent on income above $800, if single, and $2,000, if married, appeared to be in for stiff increases. Corresponding rises were indicated in the present 24 per cent corporation income tax, and in excess profits and excise levies. There was also talk that the $800 and $2,000 exemptions might be drastically lowered to bring in millions of new taxpayers.

Out of the Picture Although a general sales tax, such as those levied by a number of states, was said by one authority to be "out of the picture," other informed persons asserted that so many new items might be subjected to manufacturers' excise taxes as virtually to provide a general sales levy. Broad and clothing were expected to be exempted but extensive exploration of the field of "luxuries" was said to be in progress.

One specific increase reported to have been proposed at a conference of treasury and congressional tax leaders prior to Morgenthau's announcement yesterday was in the gasoline tax—from the present 1 1/2 cents a gallon to 2 1/2 cents.

Senator Clark said it was going to be necessary to tax persons receiving the "merest pittance of income" and that he understood treasury experts had been studying a plan to tax all wages in excess of $20 a week.

Under that plan a varying percentage of wages, depending upon the income level of the earners, would be withheld by employers and turned over to the government.

Lindbergh Believes Britain Can't Win, Even With Complete Use of United States' Resources

Flier Says Nazi Victory Is Accomplished Fact; Allies Beaten Before War Began

Chicago, April 18 (P)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh believes that England and France were vanquished before they began to fight and that Britain cannot win even with all the resources of the United States.

His opinion that a Nazi victory was an accomplished fact was expressed last night in an address at a rally sponsored by the America First Committee.

Making an appeal for unity among those groups which oppose U. S. intervention in the war, Lindbergh asserted that a minority has led the nation toward war "through misinformation and confusion of the issues involved."

"War is not inevitable for this country," he said. "To claim that our participation is inevitable is simply propaganda by those who want to get us in."

"We must face the fact that England is in a desperate position," he continued. "Up to date she has lost every major campaign in which she has participated. Her shipping bases are of the utmost seriousness, and her cities have been devastated by bombs. . . .

"Personally, I believe it will be a tragedy to the world—a tragedy even to Germany—if the British empire collapses. But I must tell you frankly that I believe this war was lost by England and France even before it was declared, and that it is not within our power in America today to win the war for England, even though we throw the entire resources of our nation into the conflict."

Lindbergh characterized the sending of arms to Europe a "mistake" which has weakened the nation's position, added to bloodshed in European countries, and failed to alter the course of the war. He said that the United States must keep its fleet out of the war zones and stop sending "most of our modern fighting planes abroad" if it is to maintain the ability to defend itself in the future.

Lindbergh said that the mission of the America First Committee, of which he is a member, was to "clarify the issues," to "build self confidence and strength in America," and to keep the nation out of war.

Three Persons Hurt when Car, Barouche Collide

New York, April 18 (P)—Three persons were injured today in the first automobile-barouche collision in Central Park within memory of police.

The impact ripped a wheel off the carriage, overturned it and spilled two passengers and the driver onto the roadway.

The automobile, Patrolman Richard McLynn said, sped from the scene without stopping, but other motorists followed it and pointed it out to police.

McLynn said the driver gave her name as Mrs. Mary B. Murphy, 42, a photographer. She was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and third-degree assault.

The injured passengers were Edward Crawford, 50, of Glen Cove, L. I., spine contusions, and Miss Jean Gray, 28, of New York city, right ankle lacerations. George W. Clark, 75, of Elmhurst, Queens, who has been driving carriages for 50 years, suffered head lacerations.

Design has become a most important factor in horticulture and upon design depends the appearance of the home surroundings, whether they are artistic and appealing or whether they are commonplace and lacking in distinction.

The flower garden should be carefully planned in its relation to the entire ground area of the home. It should be laid out to scale, the entire lot being drawn and decided made as to the location of the flower planting and what shape shall take—whether it shall be a border around the boundaries of the yard, whether it shall be a formal garden, or whether it shall consist of borders along the walks or drives.

The simplest and most effective plan for the average small home usually is a boundary planting with a background of shrubbery or vines. A border from 6 to 10 feet wide, according to the dimensions of the lot, with colonies of plants selected as a color harmony and season of bloom.

Small formal gardens to occupy the entire area of the small backyards have proved one of the most attractive plans. In this case the first decisions as to whether the lines shall be straight or curved. Straight-line beds and borders are the easiest to handle and keep in order. It is also a popular feature now to dig a small pool for the beauty of the reflections of surrounding foliage and also to grow a water lily to give its fine summer bloom.

The simplest and most lavish display of color may be secured by the use of annuals in these borders, especially if the dweller is a renter or if he is newly developing the property, the annuals furnishing color while a stock of perennials is being raised for permanent decoration. In any event plenty of annuals will be needed to furnish a mid-summer and fall display when the perennial season slackens. It is a wise plan to visit yards which have attracted admiration in your neighborhood during the winter and inspect the lines and general design with a view to adapting the best features for your own yard. In addition there are a number of excellent books on design for the home grounds at reasonable prices.

YOU may be the target for heavy claims for damages if your car injures someone or damages property of others.

Woman's Exchange Observing 30th Year

The Woman's Exchange is celebrating its 30th birthday this week and is commencing another year of service to the community.

In 1911 a group of influential women met at the home of the late Mrs. Howard Chipp to form a Woman's Exchange in this city. They elected as officers: Mrs. George Chandler, president; Mrs. E. C. Coykendall, first vice president; Mrs. A. T. Clearwater, second vice president, and Mrs. Arthur King, treasurer.

These women with a board of managers and Miss Jeannette Teller in charge of the shop, created a service which would enable women untrained for professional positions to earn a livelihood in their homes through the sale of their handwork and homemade foodstuffs.

Today the officers and board of managers of the Exchange are trying to carry on the ideals and policies begun by those women 30 years ago. Since only 15 per cent of the gross sales is kept to maintain the shop, it cannot be self-supporting. Those interested in the Exchange feel that now, more than ever before, does this worthy philanthropy deserve and need the cooperation and assistance of the community.

A visit to the Woman's Exchange Shop should be of interest to every woman, says the board of managers, Miss Anna Noyes, who presides there will be delighted to show visitors articles on sale. She will also take orders for anything to be made.

Biologists Hear Effects of Drugs

Cigarette Affects Smoker for About an Hour

Chicago, April 18 (AP)—The effect of one cigarette on a smoker for half an hour to one hour.

A measurement was reported by the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by Doctors R. J. Main and H. Weatherly of the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond. Nothing speeds up for not more than 10 minutes and blood pressure rises for a period. The stimulation to breathing is, the report said, probably due directly to nicotine. A new sleep-producing drug, oxazolone, which is safe because it causes an overdose is virtually impossible, was announced to the federation today by Doctors Roger W. Stoughton and J. H. Baxter, Jr., Baxter University, Nashville. More than half a pound can be given a 150-pound person without bad effects.

Holy Name Society Plans Observance Of Mother's Day

St. Mary's Holy Name Society will this year celebrate Mother's Day, Sunday, May 11, in an unusual manner. The second Sunday of each month is the regular Communion Sunday for the society. In conjunction with them the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin, composed of young women, will join with the men in paying homage to their own mothers and particularly to Mary, the Blessed Mother of God. This corporate communion will take place at the 8 o'clock Mass in St. Mary's Church.

In addition to the morning service a special evening service will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the church. To this service all parishioners are invited and especially all the men of the parish, whether or not they are Holy Name men.

The program of exercises will consist of the blessing of new papal and American flags and the Holy Name banner. There will then be a public induction of members—both old and new—into the society, using the full ritual of the organization.

There will be a short sermon and the exercises will conclude with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

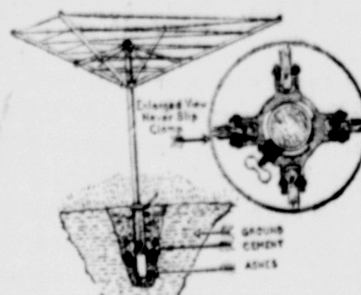

The officers are preparing a most effective musical program for the occasion and it is expected to be a notable religious event in the life of the society.

Mexico Claims Villa
Mexico has refuted the claim that Gen. Francisco (Pancho) Villa, the notorious bandit chief whose life and exploits have been the theme of numerous books and motion pictures, was a Colombian. When the claim was made recently in Colombia, Mexico produced proof in Mexico City that the bandit was born in Rio Grande on June 5, 1878, and was christened Doroteo Arango, but considered Francisco Villa more picturesque.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

BEING ASKED AT LAST MINUTE TO TAKE ANOTHER'S PLACE IS A COMPLIMENT AND CALLS FOR NO RETURN

When a hostess asks you to take the place of someone who has at the last minute been taken ill or otherwise prevented from keeping the engagement, this is always an indication that the hostess considers you an intimate friend. Otherwise she wouldn't ask the favor. I would say the following letter described a parallel situation: "I am asked quite often by friends who belong to various bridge clubs, to their houses to substitute when a regular member can't come. Will you please tell me in what way I am indebted to these clubs for my invitations?" In the last case, even more than in the first, the obligation is paid by your willingness to come to the rescue of a friend. There is a curious paradox in the situation, in that one who fills in at the last minute for somebody else is paid a decided compliment because acknowledged as a particular friend. Yet on the other hand, no return is made, because this obligation is in your favor. In the case of filling in at the bridge club, it would not do at all to make a return to the whole club, since the impression might be created (at least to some of the members) that you are angling for an invitation to become a regular member.

Marking a Wedding Gift

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm making a quilt for my nephew and his bride for their wedding present, and would like to embroider something on the back to make it personal. Would "To Mary and John" be all right? I don't want to embroider more than is necessary.

Answer: Your suggestion would be all right if they like the idea. Or you might embroider "Mary" at the top of the lining on one side and "John" on the other where each is likely to see her and his own name as the quilt is pulled up. Of course to combine both their initials in a monogram would be more conventional.

Table Setting

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine argues that if a wineglass is to be stood with the water glass, the water glass should be on the right. I don't think so but the argument has reached a stalemate. Neither of us actually knows.

Answer: I have a very uncomfortable feeling that your friend may have taken this idea from seeing a single illustration in my book. There are ten pages of table settings in which the water glass is to the left and a little above the wineglasses. But one page illustrating the progressive courses at a formal dinner shows the goblet at the right of claret and champagne glasses. Curiously enough no one has ever pointed it out to me before, nor have I noticed the fact that it is an unusual arrangement and therefore not a good example to have chosen. In other words, even though their arrangement is a matter of choice rather than of rule, I agree with you that the better arrangement is to have the goblet placed at the left of the other glasses. I am printing this answer merely in case other readers of my book have puzzled over this confusing illustration.

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

If you're puzzled about any point of correct table setting, you'll want to read Emily Post's booklet, "The Etiquette of Table Setting." Send for it, enclosing ten cents. Address Emily Post, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Clever Bridal Showers In New Hostess Booklet

"Beauty-Glamour" Shower a Hit

Any bride-to-be would be delighted with this clever "Beauty-Glamour" shower giving her cosmetics, pretties! And for you, the hostess, it's simple.

You plan a luncheon with your centerpiece a beribboned cellophane parasol, half open and half hiding the gifts. Its topknot is of pink carnations which you attach with Scotch tape.

First thrill is the powder-puff "corsage" the bride finds at her place. You make this easily, as our diagram shows. Cut a triangle from a lace-paper doily and overlap and paste the cut edges. Wires through the puff act as "stems" and bows at the wire tips give "flower" centers. Trailing satin ribbons at wire ends hold perfume nips.

Next the guest of honor discovers her surprises under the parasol, all wrapped in pink, tied with white ribbons and sprigs of lily-of-the-valley! The gifts may be powder, perfume, a lace nightgown—all for glamour!

You'll find complete plans for this and other novel bridal showers in our new 32-page booklet.

Also has clever ideas for engagement announcements, stork showers, birthday parties. Suggests invitations, menus, games.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of ANNOUNCEMENTS, SHOWERS AND BIRTHDAY PARTIES to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Giants and Cardinals Hold Margin in National League

Redbirds Triumph Over Reds Again: Giants Belt Brooks

Al Smith Blanks White Sox, 2 to 0; Yankees Stop A's, 9 to 1; Bucs Win, 7 to 2

(By The Associated Press)

A few weeks ago, when everybody was guessing and second-guessing baseball's pennant prospects, some of the experts proclaimed that if the St. Louis Cardinals jumped off to a fast start they would run away with the National League race.

Well, the redbirds are away like a rocket.

They have just won three consecutive games from the world champion Cincinnati Reds and there is no telling where or when they will stop. It might be today, but it wasn't yesterday.

The two western rivals put on a wild west showdown, with 18 players taking part for each side, and the Cardinals came out by a 7-6 margin.

The superior power of St. Louis was irresistible, as it may be throughout the year, and when the Cardinals came up to the seventh trailing 4-1, they solved the problem simply enough by having Jarin Johnny Mize hit a home run with two on and Ernie Koy another with the bases empty. After the Reds went ahead again with two runs in the half of the inning, the Cardinals clinched the decision in the ninth.

The Cards collected 13 hits to nine obtained by the Reds. The champs would never have been in the picture except for Harry Craft, who had struck out four times Wednesday. Yesterday he hit four times—a homer, two doubles and a single good for five runs.

Hartnett Hits Double

Brooklyn's unpredictable Dodgers, rated right along with the Reds and Cardinals as flag threats, also absorbed their third straight lacing from the New York Giants 7-5 in a sandlot show of 26 hits and four errors. It was a see-saw game with the Dodgers having a little the best of it until the Giants got to Curt Davis for two runs in the seventh and another

Hurts 1st Win

VERNON GOMEZ

After losing two straight to the Athletics at the Stadium Joe McCarthy's Yankees found Vernon Gomez pitched his first complete game in more than a year and gave up only seven hits as the Yankees halted a losing streak with a win by 9 to 4.

In the eighth on Gabby Hartnett's pinch double.

The Pittsburgh Pirates plastered a 7-2 count on the Chicago Cubs behind the two-hit hurling of Truett (Rip) Sewell, who could have coasted after Vince DiMaggio hit a home run with the bases loaded in the first inning. One of the blows off Sewell was a homer by rookie Lou Novikoff.

Bucs Bump Phils

The Boston Bees bumped off the Phillies 7-5 with a home run attack that would have made the weak-hitters who used to inhabit the beehive squirm. Max West hit a homer with one on in the third. In the eighth, with the Bees trailing 5-4, Babe Dahlgren, the ex-Yankee, slapped a round-tripper with one on, and finally, relief pitcher Wes Ferrell drove out a final homer in the ninth and took credit for the victory.

Al Smith, southpaw castoff of the National League, shut out the Chicago White Sox 2-0 for the Cleveland Indians right on the heels of Al Milnar's two-hit shut-out of the day before. Smith allowed six hits, while his teammates bunched two pairs out of the seven they got off Lefty Thornton Lee.

Joe McCarthy shook up his New York Yankee lineup and got a 9-4 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics that was cheering mostly because Lefty Gomez went the route for the first time in more than a year. He looked his old free and easy self in parcelling out seven hits and was never in danger after a combination of five hits and three errors gave the Yankees seven runs in the fourth. Charley Keller collected four hits, including a homer.

Silver Palace Loop Holds Seventh Annual Banquet

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, April 18—Hoyt Hall of Auburn and Bill McCellan of Mississippi State, have tied for the pole vault in three consecutive meets. Now you tie that one.

Ed Bank, ex-grid coach at U. of Idaho, now is a big shot in the war department's morale department and has been assigned to organize an athletic program for the entire U. S. Army. . . Fritzie Zivic, who fights Mike Kaplan in Beantown tonight, was introduced to the Massachusetts House of Representatives and invited the entire membership to attend the fight as his guests. . . When Co-Promoter Mike Jacobs heard about it, he caught the next plane for Boston, his store teeth clacking. . . They wouldn't let Lev Jenkins say good-bye to his manager, Hymie Caplan, as Hymie left for a long visit to Sing Sing.

His Number Up

Joe Marty may be ordered to the army. And the irony in that one is immense.

For it gives a guy the willies. When they raid the lowly Phillies With a view to adding strength to our defense.

They're Back Again

The Wood vs. Wood feud will be resumed when Yale and Colgate lock horns Monday. "Smoky Joe" Wood is the Yale coach. Joe, Jr., will be Yale's pitcher. Colgate's elbow will be Steve Wood, another son, while a third, Bobby will play first for Colgate. Last year Yale won by a run, although Steve parked one. This time, reinforced by another Wood, Colgate hopes to square the series. . . .

Tuesday's opener in Boston was the first Nick Altrock veteran Washington coach and comedian, has missed in more than 40 years. Nick is laid up with a broken leg. . . . Freddy Lindstrom, Knoxville manager, has installed a new set of springs in his leg and put himself on the club's active list. . . . Don Meade may be aboard Little Beans in the Derby.

Today's Guest Star

Jimmy Wood, Brooklyn Eagle: "Tony Lazzeri and Marvin Owen, who have been trying to kid themselves that they still retain the flush of youth, tripped on their whiskers in early coast league games and went to the sidelines with pulled muscles."

Hit parade: U. of Colorado's baseballers collected 43 hits and 43 runs in a double bill against Nebraska. . . Heart break: Drew Reid Handley southpawed a no-hitter for the Edinburg (Texas) High against the M. Allen team, but lost, 3-2. Dittied last year against the same team, but lost, 6-5. . . Help wanted: The line is forming to the right out at South Dakota State where four coaches quit their posts in the last few weeks. . . Success secret: Conn McCreary, the jockey sensation, credits his amazing record to the fact that he rides with stirrups of the same length—like Sande, McAttee and Fator used to do. Expect 200 Keglers At Dinner Monday

2nd Booster and Wiltwyck Gathering at Barn

Final arrangements have been completed for the second annual banquet of the Kingston Booster Bowling League and the Wiltwyck Bowling League to be held at The Bar, Monday, April 21. It is expected that 200 bowlers and their guests will attend.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman will be the principal speaker and Frederick Stang, assistant district attorney of Ulster county, will act as toastmaster. Prizes will be awarded to teams and individuals of both leagues for high scores rolled during the season. Three acts of vaudeville will be presented and music will be furnished by Arnold Stanley and his orchestra.

Prize Earnings

The 1940-41 bowling season of the Silver Palace League came to an official close Wednesday evening at Williams Lake as members and invited guests gathered for the seventh annual banquet. Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman was the guest speaker.

Other notables attending were City Engineer James G. Norton, Peter Keresman, president of the Kingston Bowling Association; Charles Tiano, secretary of the Kingston Bowling Association; James Roe, Ken Van Etten, secretary of Silver Palace League; Homer Emerick, John Bruck, Adison Jones, Jack Martin and Marty Kellenberger.

Following the banquet Mayor Heiselman lauded the efforts of the Silver Palace League and stated that bowling is now playing a big part in our recreational life. James Norton, president of the league, followed and distributed prizes to the winning teams and individual bowlers.

Leo Helmbold of the Millard bowlers, was awarded an A. B. C. medal for his 263 single by Charles Tiano, representative of the K. B. A.

Before the banquet festivities ended officials paid tribute to John Bailey, Frank Robinson and Ernie Bartoff, who are now in the United States Army. Before entering the service, these bowlers played an important part in the Silver Palace League.

Recreations Will Hold 1st Workout Sunday Afternoon

Joe Hoffman Issues Call to 1940 Players and Newcomers; No Home Games on Sunday

The first spring practice of the 1941 season will be called by Manager Joe Hoffman of the Recreations Sunday afternoon at Hasbrouck Park. The drill will start at 2 o'clock. All of last year's players are requested to attend, as well as newcomers.

Taking over the reins of the Recreations this summer Hoffman will undoubtedly have his work cut out for him as he faces a big task of finding replacements and new material to make his club a winning one. Last season, under Charlie Husta, the club brought baseball back to some degree.

Talking with Manager Hoffman the other evening it was learned that the newly appointed pilot isn't sure of any of last year's players being with the club this summer. Feelers have already been sent out for many Hudson Valley stars and in all probability the Recs will have a few new faces in the uniform when the opening game starts.

The Recreations already have turned thumbs down on Sunday ball for the city. Last year's attendance proved this point beyond a doubt. Until the lights at the stadium have been erected the team will play on the road. It is expected that the lights will be ready in June.

Scott Tells How Jockeys Received Their Instructions

Superior Court Jury Hears How Einstoss Called to Arrange Pulling of Certain Horses

Los Angeles, April 18 (AP)—Leonard Scott, testifying at the trial of five men accused of bribing jockeys, told a superior court jury the riders received their instructions through coded telephone conversations.

The 19-year-old jockey said Bernard (Mooney) Einstoss, one of the defendants, paid him $600 to ride crooked races during the 1940 season.

Scott testified yesterday he would call Einstoss, using an assumed name, and they would check the overnight entries. Einstoss would indicate the horses he wanted pulled, Scott said, with the remark, "I don't like this one."

"If I could pull the horse, I'd say, 'I don't like him either. But if I wasn't going to pull the horse, I would say, 'Why, I like that horse.'"

Scott said he was introduced to Einstoss at Tanforan by Sol Greenberg, another defendant, whom he quoted as suggesting: "You're getting pretty big and you won't be riding much longer. I'd like to help you make some money. I'll introduce you to a friend and he'll fix you up."

Einstoss' proposal, Scott testified, was that "he would pay me $200 for every horse going to the post at 4 to 1 or less than I kept out of the money, and $100 for horses at more than 4 to 1."

The jockey said he was instructed to keep the maiden 2-year-old Armada from winning her first start at Tanforan, so—

"When we left the starting gate, I whammed Armada with my whip to make sure she would buck and throw me."

The league will consist of eight teams which will play a seven game schedule. The league will terminate in June with a short series between the two leading teams which will decide the Junior City Softball Champions.

The schedule for Saturday is as follows:

MJM All Stars-Centrals at High School.
Babcock's-Bruins at Barnmann Park.
Clowns-Troop 5 at Hasbrouck Park.

Exempt Firemen Elect Officers

Annual Session Is Held at Kolts Residence

The Kingston Exempt Firemen's Association held its annual meeting Thursday evening, April 17, at the home of Edwin L. Kolts, 315 Hasbrouck avenue.

There were about 50 members present and the following were elected to serve for the ensuing year: Richard Greene, president; Stanley Dempsey, first vice-president; L. E. Dunne, second vice-president; Edwin L. Kolts, financial secretary; George W. Canfield, recording secretary and treasurer, and John Heaney, guard. Directors, John Heaney, William Schwab, Fred Scholl, Joseph Gellner and L. E. Dunne; auditing committee, Fred Harder, Fred Scholl and Stanley Dempsey; delegate to State Firemen's Association, Anton Kodetick; delegate to Ulster County Firemen's Association, Bruno Kodetick and David Burgevin; delegates to Veteran Firemen's Association, Edwin Kolts, Fred Harder and William Schwab.

Reports of financial secretary and treasurer showed a fine balance in the treasury. The association has taken in about 40 new members in the last year, and is growing larger fast. Any volunteer fireman who has served five years can become a member of this association. The association pays a death benefit and has paid out over $12,000 in benefits since it was formed in April, 1890. They also have one of the oldest hand engines in this country which came from England in 1757.

After the meeting the members were invited into the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. Kolts where they sat down to an indoor clam bake which was enjoyed by all. Several of the older members were called on to tell about fire fighting in the old days. Among them was Joseph Tubby, Sr., who has been a member of the Kingston Fire Department for 63 years.

Ground Is Broken for Sewage Plant

Freeman Photo

Ground was broken this morning for Kingston's $376,000 sewage disposal plant on the site of the old Ulster & Delaware railroad machine shops and roundhouse, when Mayor C. J. Heisselman officially turned over the first spadeful of ground. In the picture, reading left to right, are Joseph Kelly, the WPA foreman in charge of the construction of the plant; Frank Campbell, superintendent of construction on WPA projects; City Engineer James G. Norton; Mayor C. J. Heisselman, using the spade; Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer, of the Board of Public Works, and Consulting Engineer Edward J. McCaffery.

Preliminary work on the project was started Thursday when a force of 25 WPA men began the work of excavating the stumps of the trees that had been planted along the property line on East Strand. There is also considerable cleaning up of the site necessary before actual construction work starts on the building.

The ceremony of turning over the first ground in the project was a simple one with no one in attendance except the ones shown in the picture and the WPA workers engaged on the project.

Athens Says War Is Developing in Unfavorable Way

Spartan King Leonidas 480 years before Christ made his historic defense with 300 men against the Persian army of King Xerxes.

But it won't be the same as of old. In the time of Leonidas the pass was probably about 14 yards wide. The passing of centuries have seen it broadened to a plain a mile and a half to three miles wide by deposits of the River Sperchius — just suited to the speedy operations of Hitler's mechanized forces.

It is interesting to note that the Nazis have stopped claiming that the British had piled onto ships in Greek ports and run away. This patent piece of propaganda wouldn't stand up in view of the battle for Greece.

However, I will venture the thought that if the British haven't provided transport to try to salvage men and equipment in event of a disaster in Greece, then they are no longer the good soldiers they used to be. The German high command, which certainly knows its war, would be the first to take such a precaution were the Nazis in the position of the British.

BEARSVILLE

Bearsville, April 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Phillips of West Hurley spent Easter Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Shultis.

Congratulations are being received by Mr. and Mrs. Oliver D. Shultis of Springfield, O., upon the arrival of a daughter, Mr. Shultis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Shultis.

The W. S. C. S. of the Woodstock Methodist Church will hold its May meeting at the home of Mrs. Minnie Rosenwald in Lake Hill Thursday, May 1, at 2 o'clock. Mrs. E. Van Keuren of Kingston spent Tuesday with her daughter, Mrs. Victor Shultis.

Several from this place attended the banquet of recognition held at the Woodstock Methodist Church hall on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Shultis and Mrs. V. L. Shultis and son, Vernon, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Phillips motored to Lackawack on Sunday to see the site of the new Merriman Dam which is under construction.

abolition of special juries in Westchester county in the "hope that next year the Legislature will abolish all blue ribbon juries."

However, the bill he signed continues special juries in New York, Bronx, Kings and Queens counties, which the governor said was an "undemocratic brand of justice to the people of New York."

Other measures enacted by Lehman bringing the number of 1941 laws to 451:

Fine hunters $50 who damage livestock or poultry.

Provide that no reforestation law shall prevent highway improvement for national defense.

The governor vetoed a bill which would permit awards to widows of deputy sheriffs in New York city killed in performance of duty.

10,000 Killed In Belgrade

The German air force attacked. The citizens, who had not yet learned the nation was at war, poured into the streets when the sirens screamed and the bomber squadrons roared overhead. They stood and stared curiously up at the planes and did not take shelter—though there weren't enough shelters for all.

It was a massacre. At least 10,000 died in the capital alone. In one square I counted more than 200 bodies after the first morning raid.

Almost at the start the water supply failed and huge fires raged unchecked until the city was mantled with a heavy smoke pall.

The United States, British and Greek legations were among the first buildings destroyed, along with most of the government quarters.

Bombers swept over in waves for two days until the city was a shattered, flaming shambles.

Follows Government

With several companions I followed the government toward the interior. We slept in ditches and barns, and lived on handouts from the hospitable peasants who refused to accept any money.

Nazi bombers strafed villages and roads.

We arrived in Sarajevo in time to meet another air blitzkrieg. This city, where the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand marked an event leading to the World War, was blasted and burned to ruins.

The flimsy, crowded wooden buildings of the bazaar in this "most oriental city in Europe" were turned into a flaming mass by the first incendiaries, and smoke rose toward the towering mountains from the burning minarets of the many Moslem churches.

Heading toward the Adriatic from Sarajevo we reached Montenegro. Here we found army leaders putting down an abortive fifth column uprising. Traitors were lined up against a wall and shot.

By the time we reached the Adriatic coast it was apparent that further Serbian resistance would be confined to guerrilla warfare.

Army Asks Half Million Volunteers To Spot Raiders

Emmons Is in Charge

Lieutenant General Delos C. Emmons, commander of the army's general headquarters army force, will have a charge of the program, aided by officers who have checked the operations of the British air raids precaution service under war conditions.

The agreement to trim production of pleasure cars, and trucks, by about 1,000,000 units in the 1942 model year, beginning August 1, was announced by Production Chief William S. Knudsen yesterday after a conference with spokesmen for the industry. By holding production to about 4,160,000 units, large quantities of steel, rubber, nickel, lead and other prime materials will be made available for defense uses.

The four ships turned over to the raid-beat British merchant marine were the first dispatched under the lease-lend bill. The S. S. Robin Doncaster already has been delivered to the British at Baltimore; the S. S. Almeria Lykes, S. S. Exemplar and S. S. Nightingale were reported in process of delivery. Manned entirely by British officers and men, they will sail under the British flag.

General Marshall announced yesterday a wide expansion of plans to train selective service men to serve as army officers. Stepping up the original program about five-fold, about 10,000 soldiers will be chosen to attend three month courses at 10 officer training schools which will open in July.

Marshall said that the men chosen because of leadership already demonstrated in the ranks should make "the finest group of officers obtainable."

C.I.O. Threatens General Motors With Walkouts

Detroit, April 18 (AP)—One week after settlement of their strike at the Ford Motor Company the C.I.O.'s United Automobile Workers threatened today to walk out at plants of General Motors Corporation.

R. J. Thomas, union president, announced that a five-day notice of intention to strike had been filed with the Michigan labor mediation board in compliance with state law, and at the same time union heads instructed locals in 61 General Motors plants throughout the country to take strike votes before next Thursday.

The actions came after six weeks of negotiations between the corporation, world's largest producer of motorcars, and the union over the latter's demands for amendments to an agreement governing wages and working conditions.

Expiration date of the agreement is Sunday. It automatically renews itself from year to year, however, and union officials said they believed it would be kept in effect beyond Sunday even though no settlement of differences may be reached by that time.

Giant 'Human Eye' in Health Drive Museum

A "human eye" larger than a man and a working model of the heart play their part in public health instruction in Cleveland's Museum of Health and Hygiene, the only institution of its kind in America.

Dr. Bruno Gebhard, director of the museum, believes that as a person acquires greater familiarity with his own organic structure, his interest in maintaining health increases.

As a result, the museum's exhibits consist largely of ingenious mechanical reproductions of human organs from which the layman may gain a knowledge of how his body works.

The new institution people will learn by seeing. The visitor will be able to walk inside a model of a human eye, press a button and see the interior of the museum as it appears to a near-sighted person. By pressing other buttons it will look as if it would to one who is farsighted, color blind or aged.

The public may start or stop a model of a heart, see how it is built and nourished, watch food in the process of digestion, or minutely observe the movement of muscles.

The museum will maintain a workshop for the manufacture of models of organs, now available only from Germany and Japan.

Official Language of State Is American, Not English

American is the official language of Illinois, although citizens of the state may have overlooked the fact. It was brought out in a Chicago court the other day when an interpreter was being sworn. The clerk read the oath pledging the interpreter to translate faithfully from the Polish into the "American language." An attorney objected, saying that the English language was meant. The clerk produced a yellowed card on which the oath was printed. The word "English" had been crossed out and "American" substituted.

Then the bailiff spoke up. "I did that," he said, "when the general assembly made 'American' the official language in 1928." So the statute was hunted up and the bailiff's statement verified.

In this connection it is interesting to know that South American school children, asked whether they studied English in their schools, have answered, "Yes, but it is English, not American English."

There are books and dictionaries that note the difference between English as spoken by citizens of Great Britain and citizens of the United States of America, but there might still be difficulties in requiring anyone to speak only "American" in the courtroom.

Inventors Are the Pioneers

America's future lies in the hands of its inventors, Albert G. Burns of Chicago, president of the I.O.A., told inventors gathered for their annual convention in Los Angeles, recently.

"No matter how the war terminates, it is certain to be followed by a profound disturbance in this nation's economic structure," he said. "Latin America, if properly developed, will present something of a field for new enterprises, but mainly we must seek stabilization of our economic structure in further development of the greatest potential market in the world—our own internal United States."

"Inventors, creating new markets with their new waves, will be the pioneers of this development."

Melik Bond Found Sufficient After Evidence Given

County Judge J. Edward Conway this morning held the bail bond given by Mrs. Mary Melik in the matter of The People vs. Zaven E. Melik good and sufficient and continued the bail after testimony had been offered by Mrs. Melik in a surety justification hearing before the court.

Testimony was offered to show that the surety was worth $2,000 over and above mortgages on the real property located on South Clinton avenue which was offered as security. The testimony indicated that surety owned in addition to the equity in the real property included a considerable amount of personal property.

Zaven Melik is charged by indictment with coercion and intimidating a public officer as a result of an affair which allegedly took place at the local draft board office when his brother, Soss Melik, local artist, was inducted into service and sent to Albany where he was later discharged.

Following indictment by the grand jury Melik gave bail, his mother being surety. At the time District Attorney Haver reserved the right to examine and have appraised the property which was posted as security to determine whether the property of the surety was worth $2,000.

The hearing was held at chambers this morning before Judge Conway and after the hearing he held the surety justified and Melik was continued under the bail bond. Assistant District Attorney Fred Stang appeared for The People and Daniel Hoffman and John W. DeWitt for the defendant.

English Girls Live on Charity

Maidens From Best Families Of Britain Work for Living in Canada.

MONTEBELLO, QUEBEC.—Here in this mountain resort, where Canada's social 400 play in luxury, 14 English girls from the best families of Great Britain live in an old hotel, dependent upon the charity of others. They peel potatoes, scrub floors, and make beds like the servants on their own estates.

The families of the girls have fortunes running into millions, but wartime exchange regulations have marooned the girls from the luxury in which they were reared and made it necessary for them to perform tasks they would not have thought of doing in England.

The residence of the girls, whose ages range from 9 to 14, once was the Pine hotel and their existence is due to the efforts of Guy Harrison and his wife, the former Julia Mars, of the London stage.

Brothers in Ottawa.

Last summer Harrison, then a teacher at the Abinger Hill school in England, decided to bring a number of boys to Canada. His wife took over the responsibility of bringing the boys' sisters to Canada. The boys were settled in Ottawa and Mrs. Harrison took over the old Pine hotel as a residence and school for the girls.

There was enough money to pay six weeks' rent, but not enough for furniture. The Seignior club came to the rescue with tables, beds and other furnishings, and the Red Cross and other organizations and friendly farmers solved the food problem with donations.

There was no money for maids so Mrs. Harrison set about the task of making her charges self-reliant. The girls were divided into four groups—scullery maids, chambermaids, parlor maids and ladies. The girls had to serve through the three classes of maids before they could be ladies.

It's Fine to Be 'Lady.'

The right to be a "lady" meant that the girl could, for the period she had the title, stay in bed late, wear the best dresses all day, and be waited upon at table, and enjoy the privilege of having the other girls at her beck and call as "servants." She can even go riding and swimming at the Seignior club, which has thrown open its sports facilities to the guest children.

Mrs. Harrison, the "fairy godmother" in the Cinderella-like lives of the girls, finds the role in real life more fascinating than any she has ever played before the footlights.

"Certainly, we are living off charity," she said. "But it's wonderful. Everyone is so kind. Why at Christmas we were given three turkeys and a whole venison and managed to buy half a cow. We are without money, but it's an experience and a wonderful one."

"The girls have been taught that learning to cook and keep house is a grand game. It hasn't done them one bit of harm. If there is a new world to face after we have won this war, I believe our girls will be much better prepared to face whatever trials it may have to offer than their sisters who live in luxury."

Artificial Leg Indirect

Blessing for Vocalist

MIAMI BEACH, FLA. — Blonde, 22-year-old Helen Carroll, vocalist with a night club orchestra here, believes an artificial leg has been an indirect blessing.

An automobile accident near Boston in 1934 resulted in amputation of her right leg, interrupting a promising career as a dancer as well as a singer.

"I don't consider my accident a handicap," she smiles. "I know I worked harder and with greater ambition because of it."

"I'm afraid I brag just a little about my prowess in horseback riding, swimming, badminton and table tennis."

She has submitted to nine operations designed to relieve pain caused by shattered nerve ends. A tenth is scheduled in March.

American Indians Were First Oyster Fishermen

WILMINGTON, DEL. — Oyster fishing along Delaware bay has been traced to early American Indians.

The Indians started their fishing in October and continued during the winter months because they knew the oysters were best during the cold seasons.

Thus the Indians were the originators of the custom of eating oysters during the "R" months.

Report of Police For March Shows Six Persons Hurt

Six persons were injured in five automobile accidents in Kingston during March, according to the monthly report of Chief of Police Charles Phinney filed with the Board of Police Commissioners on Thursday evening.

Alimony a Racket

Alimony has become quite a racket, according to a psychologist, because of the combination of antiquated laws, shyster lawyers and neurotic women. Divorced women who jail their husbands, do it partly for spite, but most of them do it because they are psychopaths, according to a recent investigation.

One ex-wife had a private fortune of $200,000 and still jailed her husband for failure to pay her $50 a week. Another divorced woman had her husband jailed because he failed to pay her $50 a week although he was making but $45 a week.

This psychologist blames crooked lawyers for this dilemma, stating that divorced women are persuaded to jail their husbands by these crooks.

Wood and Wood

Maybe you've always thought that wood is, after all, just wood—so long as it burns, but your dealer has anywhere from 10 to 20 kinds of wood in his yard and each log has its own characteristics. Here are a few of them.

Ironwood; hard as iron, heavy as lead, burns hotter than coal, burns very slowly and completely leaving few ashes. Desert Juniper; peculiar to Southwest, it is one of the few hard, long-burning fire-place woods. Olive Root; used mainly for heat and popular for its economy. Gives as much heat as coal but is awkward to handle because it is bulky and chunky. Oak; main advantage of oak is that it can stand for years and lose none of its weight, and Fragrant Woods that is a group of hardwood.

KEEPS WHITE HOUSES WHITER

Painters, home owners praise this new Du Pont House Paint.

It's the whitest white you ever saw. Tough and durable, Du Pont House Paint keeps houses beautiful because it stays cleaner! Here's why:—

Du Pont Prepared Paint forms a tough, durable film which protects the surface from rust, rot or decay. Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to the elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white powder forms on the surface of this new paint. This "self-cleaning" process starts after a few months of exposure under normal conditions of weather, but may be delayed under unusual climatic or dirt-collecting conditions. Because the "self-cleaning" process is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected.

Its economy lies in the fact that it stretches the time between paintings. Remember — Du Pont House Paint costs no more than other good paints. Ask your painting contractor to use it!
